

Milk Control Action of Lawmakers of Interest To Chief Justice Hughes

Future Plans of State are Requested by U. S. Supreme Court; Dairymen Said to Favor Continuation of the Measure.

RIFT WIDENS

Republicans and Democrats Grow Further Apart Over Unemployment Investigation.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP).—New York legislators who today studied a proposal to continue the state's milk control law found Chief Justice Hughes of the Supreme Court likewise interested in any action the state plans to take.

Even as the bill designed to keep the milk price control machinery in operation was introduced in the assembly, Chief Justice Hughes at Washington was asking Henry S. Wadley, counsel to the milk control division, what future plans were contemplated.

Chief Justice Hughes said he understood the present law was an emergency measure and wanted to know "whether it was proposed to extend it."

Wadley, appearing in court for the case attacking validity of a section of the present law, said the governor in his recent message to the legislature did not make any specific recommendation and added that he "could not be surprised should the present law be extended."

State control of milk will end next April 1, unless extended by the legislature.

Assemblyman William S. Dunn, Schoharie County Democrat, said in presenting the bill that dairymen in the state showed "overwhelming" sentiment in favor of continuance of milk control.

Other Bills.

Other bills before the legislature today call for:

An amendment to the constitution to provide public funds for parochial schools.

An amendment to the constitution to abolish capital punishment.

A tax on chain stores.

Limiting the interest charged by banks on mortgages to a rate not exceeding one per cent in excess of the interest rate paid on deposits.

A flat $5 fee for motor vehicle registrations.

Payment of only three quarters of the regular fee if an automobile is registered between April 1 and July 1.

An appropriation of $7,500 to investigate poultry diseases.

Giving city magistrates and justices of the peace jurisdiction over violations of the penal law prohibiting the game of "policy."

Defining "fixing" (pretending to have influence) as a misdemeanor.

Appropriation of $25,000 to complete a building in honor of a detail of colonial troops which captured Major Andre, British spy, at Tarrytown during the Revolution.

Breach Is Widened

The breach was widened today between Republicans and Democrats in the New York legislature on the proposed investigation into the unemployment problem in President Roosevelt's home state and the method of public scrutiny of Governor Herbert H. Lehman's $308,550,000 budget and tax program.

The Republicans, in control of the Assembly, moved swiftly to obtain an initial "look-see" into the unemployment and relief problem in the state in face of the governor's assertion they can not obtain the necessary funds to finance the project until passage of the budget, probably in early March.

Close on the heels of the introduction of a bill designed to create a commission to make a sweeping inquiry into the unemployment problem, even though funds are not immediately available, Assembly Speaker Irving M. Tamm announced that public legislative hearings on the measure will be held at an early date.

"In my judgment," he said, "enough material will be developed during the hearings to give an important initial 'look-see' at the enormity of the unemployment and relief problem confronting the people and the state."

Concerning Banks

Creation of privately owned and publicly regulated mortgage banks in New York state as a significant achievement in economic planning was recommended to the 1936 legislature today by the state mortgage commission.

Declaring that reorganization of present mortgage companies is impossible, the commission said:

"We believe that the mortgage bank will meet the needs of the community in a substantial way, that it will be a significant achievement in economic planning, and that it will provide a ready source for the investment of funds by the thrifty."

The banks, the commission said, should have adequate capital, surplus and reserve; sound management; adequate supervision of proper procedure; adequate governmental supervision and adequate statutory safeguards for several operations.

At the same time, the commission found that the emergency which brought about the enactment of the mortgage commission law in 1932 has not yet passed, and urged the legislature to at least another year.

Mystery Surrounds the Missing Ruth Stevens

The Police Department has as yet found no trace of Miss Ruth K. Stevens who vanished last Sunday evening enroute from her father's apartment at the Governor Clinton Hotel to her home on Prince street. The missing girl left her father, L. L. Stevens, about 8:50 o'clock and was last seen by a friend, at approximately 9 p. m., at the corner of Broadway and Henry street. As far as can be ascertained, Miss Stevens made no preparations for her disappearance, taking with her no extra clothes or money. She refused her father's offer of a ride home, saying she would enjoy the walk, and her departure from the hotel foreboded nothing unusual. Miss Stevens was an honor student while attending Kingston High School and a graduate of Holyoke College. She was well liked by those who knew her, and her disappearance has proven a distinct shock to her friends. The missing girl is 23 years old, 5 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs 112 pounds. At the time of her disappearance she wore silver rimmed eyeglasses, a brown and tan checked coat, brown hat with a small brown feather, brown sport shoes, brown skirt, and a rose-colored blouse.

The Police Department would be glad to learn of the whereabouts of the girl since 9 o'clock on Sunday evening last.

$300,000,000 Bill to Pay Farmers Under AAA Approved Today

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP).—A $300,000,000 bill to pay contracting farmers under the AAA started through Congress today as New Deal chiefs again assembled at the White House to discuss the agricultural problem.

A measure by Senator McNary, the Republican leader, quickly was approved by the Senate agriculture committee. It would authorize a $300,000,000 appropriation to meet financial obligations of the government under crop production contracts entered into prior to January 6—date of the AAA invalidation by the Supreme Court.

The committee also approved a $60,000,000 bill for seed and feed loans on 1936 crops. It was sponsored by Chairman Smith (D-S.C.), one of those called to President Roosevelt's office.

Flat predictions that the national agricultural conference would "blow up" were heard among men high in its councils today as the five major farm groups composing it met to discuss a substitute for AAA.

These organizations, which leaders say represent 3,000,000 American farmers, originally planned to meet here for unified action to offset the Supreme Court's invalidation of AAA. Their reason was superseded by Secretary Wallace's conference of 100 invited agriculturists who last week unanimously adopted principles for rewriting crop control on the basis of subsidized soil conservation.

Since then a majority of the Senate agricultural committee, following the lead of Senator Norris (R-Nebr.), have expressed fear that proposed reorganization of AAA principles might fail in a constitutional test.

The National Grange immediately seized the opportunity to declare publicly for a "permanent and constitutional" national farm program.

It drafted a 10-point platform emphasizing export subsidies and tariffs to exclude the competition of foreign farm products in American markets.

London, Jan. 14 (AP).—The captain of the Discovery II, searching for the missing explorer, Lincoln Ellsworth, indicated in a report today that an airplane had been sighted in Little America and that a man had been seen on the Bay of Whelan.

Owners of property against wholesale foreclosure of mortgages. It said, "The need will continue until a normal market for real property at reasonable values is again established."

At the same time, the commission found that the emergency which brought about the enactment of the mortgage commission law in 1932 has not yet passed, and urged the legislature to at least another year.

William B. Daley, district administrator of the WPA, was in Kingston yesterday and conferred with Mayor C. J. Heiselman in regard to the Works Progress program in Kingston, and as a result of the conference the city authorities agreed to approve the project for the construction of a sewer system in Roosevelt Park, and that Messrs. Cave, Beeher and Herrick, who had proven efficient construction foremen under the ERB in Kingston, would be given jobs on the new construction work.

The conference yesterday was the outcome of a communication the mayor had forwarded to the State WPA in which he called attention to the fact that the men employed on WPA projects here had to wait from five to six weeks for their pay checks, and also that the local WPA had replaced Messrs. Cave, Beeher and Herrick with inefficient foremen on local WPA jobs, presumably on the ground that they were Republicans. The mayor threatened that unless the system of paying the WPA workers was facilitated and that adequate and competent superintendence of the projects would be given that the city would shut down the WPA program in Kingston.

The three ERB foremen, who had been discharged by the local WPA, will have jobs under the new construction work planned. The new project calls for the construction of a main trunk, line sewer and a force main sewer and pumping station in the Roosevelt Park section.

The pumping station to be erected is similar to the one that the ERB constructed on Clifton avenue. In order to take care of the sewerage it is necessary to have the pumping station. The work of laying sewers in the streets on which houses are erected in Roosevelt Park will be started as soon as the trunk line sewer, the force main sewer and the pumping station are completed.

This project will afford work for a large number of men, and it is expected that it will be started shortly. According to the city authorities the other WPA projects in the city are greatly over-manned and men will be taken from those projects and placed on the Roosevelt Park project.

Laboratory Approved

Mr. Daley also informed the mayor that the WPA had approved the city laboratory project and that work on the completion of the building would be started on Friday. The new laboratory is about 70 per cent completed. It was started as a work relief project by the ERB.

Chicago, Jan. 15 (AP).—The return of AAA processing taxes which five Chicago packing houses and one grain processor put into escrow, while fighting the farm measure in court, was ordered today by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Carl Perkins, special attorney for the Treasury, said he was unable to estimate how much of the $55,000,000 on deposit in Chicago would be covered by the ruling. Two of the so-called "Big Three" of the Chicago meat industry—Armour and Co., and Thomas E. Wilson and Co. The others were Oscar Mayer and Co., P. Brenner and Co., Miller and Hart and the B. A. Eckert Milling Company.

Paul Siple Tells Scouts Senate Will Open Its He Hopes Ellsworth Is Consideration of Bonds Safe At Little America Bonus Bill on Friday

Boy Scout Representative on Byrd's First Antarctic Expedition Guest Speaker at Ulster-Greene Council's Banquet.

POLAR HAZARDS

Various Weird Phenomena May be Responsible for Lack of Communication from Explorer.

Paul Siple, the young man who was selected to accompany the first Antarctic expedition of Admiral Richard E. Byrd as a representative of the Boy Scouts and who was also a member of the second expedition as a member of the scientific department, was the guest speaker Wednesday evening at the Ulster-Greene Boy Scout Council banquet held at the Ulster-Greene Hotel where the banquet of the Ulster-Greene Boy Scout Council was held. Siple, who was chief biologist of the second expedition in 1932, reviewed his experiences with the first expedition briefly and then told in a very stirring manner of the part he took in the second expedition. He said that it had been his experience gained as a Boy Scout which had been responsible for his being selected for the first trip to the south polar regions and he told the members of the council that while every Boy Scout would never have an opportunity to join an Antarctic expedition, every Boy Scout who fitted himself for the emergency would have an opportunity for adventure.

The mystery which surrounds the disappearance of Lincoln Ellsworth, who several weeks ago started out on a flight to fly across the Antarctic wastes from his base to Little America, the Byrd camp, Mr. Siple said he hoped would be solved in a couple of days for the relief ships which have gone into the Antarctic in search of Ellsworth and his pilot are now approaching Little America and it was his sincere hope that when the relief ship arrived it would be to find Ellsworth safe at Little America. He said that his hope was that the trip had been made safely and that the reason Ellsworth had not been heard from was due only to the fact that his radio had failed to function.

Refers to Ellsworth

His reference to the Ellsworth expedition came after he had described an incident which he himself had experienced in the Antarctic wastes. On overcast days he said there was a most peculiar light in the Antarctic. It was as though a huge indirect light was shining over the country. There were no shadows cast and the entire country was lighted in a weird manner. At such times it was impossible to see anything a few feet in front of you. As there were no shadows cast it was impossible to see objects. Only by the sensation that one was walking up hill or down hill could that fact be told. Visibility of objects in front or behind was lost and even huge cakes of ice could not be seen until one actually ran into them. With no sense of distance and no objects visible he said going on foot was difficult and by air the task would be much more so as no objects could be seen below, nothing but an expanse of white. If Ellsworth had met with such a day, the condition he explained might have been the answer for no word from Ellsworth but he said he sincerely hoped that Ellsworth and his pilot had reached Little America and failure of their radio was the reason for no word.

Siple spoke in Kingston after his first trip with Admiral Byrd. At that time he told of his experiences when he accompanied the first expedition in 1933 as a typical Boy Scout. Since that time he has completed his college education and traveled extensively. The second expedition in 1935 was a more elaborate affair with much better equipment and more scientific instruments. He described the first expedition's return to civilization. The ship which was to take the men away had been delayed by ice until it was late in the southern summer season when it finally arrived at Little America. It had been blown in on a storm and haste was necessary to get the men and supplies aboard in order that the ship might leave before winter set in and the sea froze over and held the expedition for another year. In their haste to leave all equipment, including three fuel tanks, was abandoned by a blizzard. He said they were up in the air for 14 days.

Chairman Harrison Seeks Floor Attention for Measure Today, But McNary Wins Delay Under the Rules.

VICTORY GRANTED

Morgenthau Testimony Before Senate Committee Seen as Having Little Effect on Final Passage.

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP).—The Senate agreed today to start consideration of the baby-bond payment bill tomorrow after Republican Leader McNary had urged a day's delay under the rules.

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the finance committee, sought floor consideration today. McNary said that "in all fairness" to members who have not read the bill and the committee report submitted only late yesterday, the full-payment measure should go over until tomorrow.

The Senate then agreed to Harrison's unanimous consent request that debate begin tomorrow.

Senator King (D-Utah) introduced a substitute bill providing for payment now of only the cash surrender or present value of the 20-year adjusted service (bonus) certificates, which he estimated would have $1,000,000,000.

Enactment of the baby-bond bill to pay the soldiers' bonus in blocks of $50 cashable bonds was conceded today by a prominent opponent of the measure despite Secretary Morgenthau's testimony about the financial task the treasury faces.

A southern senator not wishing to be quoted by name said he himself would vote against the measure unless it provides for payment out of existing appropriations.

But he said the Morgenthau testimony before the Senate finance committee would have little or no effect on final passage, even over a veto. Morgenthau said in effect that enactment of the bill now would increase to $11,300,000,000 the new treasury financing necessary for the next 1 1/2 months.

The House bill would pay the full face value of the $500,000,000 adjusted service certificates in special bonds equivalent to demand notes.

The bonds would be redeemable at local post offices beginning next June. If redeemed the first year, no interest would be paid. Three per cent interest would be paid to those holding them as an investment. They would mature in nine years.

Chairman Harrison (D. Miss.) of the finance committee, whose name is attached to the coalition bill along with those of Senators Byrnes (D. S. C.), Stewer (R. Ore.) and Clark (D. Mo.), wanted to start Senate debate today. But Republican Leader McNary of Oregon said he would ask a day's delay as senators could study the bill more thoroughly.

No one professed to know definitely what President Roosevelt would do once the bill is plumped on the White House doorstep.

Supreme Court Refuses To Save Bruno Hauptmann From The Electric Chair

Desperation Is Given By Mrs. Sherwood as Cause for Killing Son

Burkinshaw Files Papers With Chief Justice Hughes in Brief Proceedings Today; No Indication of Time of Decision.

"I AM HOPEFUL"

Mrs. Hauptmann Tells Reporters That Both She and Husband are Hoping for the Best.

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP).—The Supreme Court refused today to save Bruno Richard Hauptmann from the electric chair tomorrow night.

Apparently the only hope of the convicted kidnapper of the Lindbergh baby lies in a possible reprieve by Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey.

Washington, Jan. 16 (AP).—In a dramatic eleventh hour effort, attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann appealed today to the supreme court to save the convicted kidnaper and murderer of the Lindbergh baby from the electric chair tomorrow night.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus and a stay of execution was presented in open court shortly after it met at noon. It contained, however, no mention of new evidence or a confession but conformed rather to previous allegations put forward unsuccessfully in efforts to obtain a review of Hauptmann's conviction.

"You may submit the papers," was the only comment of Chief Justice Hughes.

The motion was made by Nell Burkinshaw, one of Hauptmann's attorneys.

"I ask leave of court to present an original petition for a writ of habeas corpus and a petition for a stay of judgment," he said.

The entire proceedings lasted only a few seconds.

The petition presented by Burkinshaw, contended among other things that "in general the jurors were exposed to an overwhelming mob spirit during the entire duration of the trial both during and between sessions of the court, all of which was subversive of the right of the petitioner to a fair and impartial trial."

The allegations were similar to those presented previously to the court in an unsuccessful effort to obtain a review of Hauptmann's conviction. They also were along the same general lines as those presented to Justice J. Warren Davis of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals at Trenton who denied the writ of habeas corpus.

The petition was filed against Colonel Mark Kimbrell, principal keeper of the New Jersey State prison at Trenton where Hauptmann is awaiting execution.

The petition said Hauptmann "is restrained of his liberty" and "under a warrant for the execution of a sentence of death."

Last Visit, Perhaps.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 16 (AP).—Anna Hauptmann today saw her husband, perhaps for the last time alive, and came from the death house far from hopes and far from demonstration of grief.

"I am sure the state will not take the life of an innocent man," she said. "I am hopeful, and so is Richard."

"Richard seemed terribly hurt when I told him our son had been here in Trenton. But I don't take the baby to see him. Richard and I decided he should never see this place (the prison)."

"I didn't ask for permission to see him again today."

This statement was a direct contradiction of her earlier claim that she would not see Hauptmann tomorrow night for the Lindbergh baby murder, after prison authorities said a strategy by Hauptmann would be to get a last visit with his mother.

"I don't know what the state will do with the execution," she said.

"I don't know what the state will do with the execution," she said.

"I don't know what the state will do with the execution," she said.

MRS. DOROTHY SHERWOOD.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP).—Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood, on trial for her life, testified today that she drowned her two-year-old son in a moment of desperation after she had been deserted by a sailor.

The sailor, she said, pretended to be a G-man.

The former salvation army lassie and show girl, who pleaded temporary insanity, momentarily lost her composure as she described to the jury how she allowed her son, Jimmy, to play along the bank of Moon creek before she drowned him. She wanted to save him from suffering, she said.

The pretended "G-man," she said she has since learned, still lives in Newburgh with his wife, Mrs. Sherwood, 27, blonde and a widow, said she became acquainted with him when he was a patron in a restaurant where she worked.

"I thought he was a decent, respectable man to whom I could trust myself and Jimmy's future," she said.

Mrs. Sherwood is on trial for first degree murder. The state contends there was no need for her "mercy crime" and has asked the jury to send her to the electric chair.

Home Nursing Classes Started at Highland; Nurse Gives Report

Highland, Jan. 16—The starting of classes in home nursing was discussed at the meeting of the nurse committee Tuesday afternoon at the health center. These classes have successfully been held for several years and grown in popularity. They are held on one evening a week for ten weeks to cover the following: Beds and bedmaking. Care and comfort of the patient. Baths and packs. Counter Irritants. Administration of medicine. Feed the patient and the family. Emergencies. Bandaging. Child care. Synopsis of important diseases.

Mrs. Richards, town nurse, will receive enrollments on Monday evening or they can be telephoned to her at her home or through Mrs. James Callahan. She has had two or more school children who were in sore need of spectacles and she was authorized to procure them and draw on the treasurer for the expense. There was reported to be $32.37 on hand, although $5 of that amount belonged to the milk fund. No action was taken on serving milk to the undernourished at school, although there are always those children who need it. Attending were: Mrs. Richards, Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Ella Burchill, Mrs. Elmer Randall, Mrs. Gay Bratt, the Misses Dorothy Weaver and Eliza Raymond. Mrs. Richards presented her reports for town and school for the month of December: In the town of Lloyd: Analysis of visits: Instruction, 26; demonstration, 30; nursing care, 21. Type of case—Prenatal, 38; infancy, 22; pre-school, 25; school, 42; pneumonia, 10; health officers and other visits, 12. Patients sent to hospital, two. One patient taken to doctor four taken to clinics, one taken to dentist. Clinics—Prenatal, one with seven patients, child hygiene, one with eight attending, orthopedic, one with six attending.

MELA-VIM

Positively Rejuvenates The Blood

STAR ROUTE
SAVILTON
NEWBURGH, N. Y.
NOV. 8th, 1935.

MR. MELAGHORES:

Words are totally inadequate to express my appreciation of the benefit I have received from your medicine, MELA-VIM.

Being a Graduate Nurse from a famous British hospital; serving in the World War from 1914 until 1919; spending most of my time on the high seas, in Egypt, India, Dar-danelles, etc., I think I am at liberty to speak from experience of the wonderful improvement MELA-VIM has made in me.

I have suffered for quite a number of years with the most terrible headaches, sleepless nights, Rheumatism, Low Blood Pressure, Sallow Complexion. I was an absolute wreck—and last but not least, suffered Dizziness, which to me was terrible, for I was confined to my bed, unable to raise my head. A friend came to see me and recommended your medicine, telling me the wonders it had done for him. I decided to try it, and after taking the first two bottles I felt a great change come over me. I began to sleep, eat, and take on weight; headaches vanished, and only one slight attack of Dizziness. (Thanks to Mela-Vim) I have now taken ten bottles, and hope to take the complete course for I know it will take more for me than some people, owing to my run-down condition.

I only wish the whole world knew about Mela-Vim, for it cures every HEALING (God's greatest gift) which money cannot buy. You are at liberty, Mr. Melaghores, to show my letter to anyone. I shall be delighted to answer any questions I am able to, and shall recommend it wherever I can.

Again allow me to thank you for the great benefit I have received from Mela-Vim. My husband intends to take a course when I have finished.

I shall be pleased to answer any question anytime.

Yours faithfully,

WILEY POST MAGELLAN OF THE STRATOSPHERE

Aging Winnie Mae Doubles Her Speed

(Third in a series)
By BILLY PARKER

While preparations were being made for the stratosphere flight, Wiley Post and Frank Phillips, his financial backer, decided the world's best could be awakened to the possibilities of stratosphere flying if the ship were flown from Los Angeles to New York in the stratosphere at an extremely high rate of speed.

From then on, all plans were laid around this idea, which in itself turned out to be a mistake, for it automatically branded as a failure any flight which ended short of this goal.

In all of his flights Wiley proved without doubt to thinking persons that the stratosphere is the place for all future long-distance flying.

Let us look at the record. When Wiley flew from Los Angeles on the morning of last March 15 he landed at Cleveland, O., seven hours and 19 minutes later. This is a distance of 2,045 miles, which shows an average speed of 285 miles an hour.

But when he decided it was necessary to land at Cleveland, Post already was 100 miles east of there at about 40,000 feet altitude.

From that time it was an hour and 15 minutes before he actually landed on the field, which would fix his average speed from the start to a point over his final destination at around 304 miles an hour.

This was accomplished with an airplane eight years old in design, with a normal cruising speed at sea level of 150 miles an hour, a speed probably stepped up to 170 miles an hour by dropping the landing gear.

Simply by going up to 40,000 feet Wiley proved definitely the speed of a plane can be more than doubled.

Let us see just what this means. It enables the craft to fly above all ordinary storms and cloud banks, reducing the weather problem. At the worst it would be necessary only to climb through bad weather at the start of a flight and descend through it near the destination. Ninety-five per cent of the flying could be done in clear weather.

Since the perfection of blind, or instrument, flying, weather no longer holds transport aircraft on the ground. Ice is the only serious difficulty now preventing 100 per cent schedules.

Since ice forms on an airplane only at temperatures of 30 to 34 degrees Fahrenheit, except under extraordinary conditions which do not cause serious trouble, there is no danger of ice at stratosphere levels. Ships would remain in cloud banks in lower levels such a short time ice could cause no serious trouble.

In addition, decisions have been perfected so aircraft could, with safety, pull through ice-forming conditions until a non-icing area was reached.

Ship Thoroughly Groomed
Probably the most important factor for the future of air transportation is the fact that to fly a given distance an airplane and its engine would be operated only one-half as long.

This will cut costs nearly in half, with the resultant saving to the user of the service.

In case of over-water flying the hazard will be greatly reduced in that the time spent away from land will be cut in half.

Wiley encountered regrettable and unnecessary difficulties through these significant moments.

When he was poised for his first attempt to fly from Burbank, Calif., to New York last February 22, we all thought his equipment was in perfect condition.

For months the country's finest engineers and mechanics had groomed the ship, going over every bolt, nut and cotter key.

Difficulties encountered prior to that time had been of a minor nature. They were to be expected in any such research work, but they had been overcome. Test flights had proved to the satisfaction of every one that the Winnie Mae was ready and, under ordinary circumstances, would carry her master to New York in eight hours or less.

Before each of Wiley Post's four hops in the stratosphere were weeks of scientific conditioning of the Winnie Mae, a task made more tedious by the continued strain put on the grand old ship. Wiley spent most of those days in the work shop.

But the next difficulty was not surrounded by ordinary circumstances. Less than an hour after his takeoff, after dropping his landing gear and climbing rapidly to 40,000 feet, Wiley was down on Muroc Lake, lucky to be alive.

It was hard to believe anyone would stoop so low as to put emery in the ship's engine. Why it was done remains a profound mystery.

It forced Wiley to an emergency landing of a fast plane without landing gear, with the windshield entirely covered with oil, obscuring vision, and with a ton of highly inflammable gasoline around his neck. That was no sport and nothing anyone with a love of life would enjoy experiencing.

Other Efforts
The forced landing spurred Wiley on. When we had determined by microscopic analysis that emery had been placed in the engine, Wiley was more set than ever on continuing his experiments.

His backer, Phillips, promised to stay with him as long as Wiley cared to continue, and in less than six weeks he was ready again.

His forced landing at Cleveland on March 15 was, we have determined, a direct result of the original tampering. Post's declaration that he ran out of oxygen was due simply to his dislike of an "alibi" he could not at the time prove.

It was some time before Wiley determined to try again. The constant labelling of his flights as "failures" brought discouragement. However, he did try again, on April 15, and this time the much repaired external supercharger went to pieces somewhere over Ohio and Wiley again was forced down, this time at Lafayette, Ind. Still, he had averaged more than 300 miles an hour.

Feeling the trip simply had to be completed, Wiley took off again on June 15, after much reconditioning work on the aged Winnie Mae. His ship this time developed a bad oil leak while he was over the Mississippi valley. Wiley throttled back his motor and returned to Wichita, Kas., where he knew the weather was clear.

By this time the Winnie Mae was in bad shape. She had undergone four skid landings and, engine and all, had taken severe beatings she never was intended to survive. Phillips was willing to continue and offered unlimited backing, but Wiley declined to go ahead with the Winnie Mae. I think he used very good judgment.

Watertown, N. Y., Jan. 16 (AP)—Wisconsin's progressive Governor Philip F. LaFollette says the Republicans' chances of winning the 1936 presidential election depend almost entirely on the candidate and platform.

"I hesitate to name my choice," LaFollette said, "states like Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, which from the Civil War to 1922 were predominantly Republican, that year went overwhelmingly for Roosevelt. We must assume that the voters did not go back on the Republican party, but that the party went back on them."

"Swan Song" Phrase Has to Do With Final Tasks

A "swan song" is the last work of an author, artist or composer, especially a work produced just before death, advises a writer in the Indianapolis News. The phrase alludes to the old belief that the swan sings beautifully while dying. According to a Greek legend, Apollo, the god of music, passed into a swan. Plato, in Phaedrus, has Socrates say that swans sing at their death "not out of sorrow or distress, but because they are inspired by Apollo, and they sing as foreknowing the good things their god hath in store for them." Aristotle and other early Greek philosophers accepted the belief that swans sing before death as having a proper place in natural history. Much has been written to prove or to disprove the belief. There may have been a slight basis for it.

Although most species of swans make no sound at any time that could be described as musical, there are a few exceptions. In his "Account of Iceland," Nicol says of the whistling swans of that island that "during the long, dark nights their wild song is often heard resembling tones of a violin, though somewhat higher and remarkably pleasant." A statement even more to the point is found in George Adolf Erman's "Travels in Siberia," that the Cygnus olor or whooping swan "when wounded, pours forth its last breath in notes most beautifully clear and loud." The United States biological survey makes the following statement:

"It seems now that notwithstanding swans do not have notes that are particularly musical, on rare occasions wounded or dying swans do produce notes which are very different from the ordinary notes of the species and which might readily give rise to the story that the bird sings when dying. This may have been the original basis for the story, and it is verified for the field observations of a very competent observer, in comparatively recent years."

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Fur trims a top-coat suit for spring.

Lana Munroe

Fashion designers seem to agree on the fact that suits will be greatly in favor for the spring season. Advance showings display many two-piece mannish tailors in men's suiting fabrics, in tweeds and nubby wools.

Other noteworthy styles of unusual smartness are the dressy three-piece models with an added top-coat for early season town or travel wear. Some of these top-coat suits are richly fur-trimmed, while others show a plaid top-coat of harmonizing shade over a two-piece suit of plain tweed.

In the fur-trimmed models, the fur in most cases harmonizes with the color of the fabric. White fox, dyed to a platinum gray tone, trims the dressy suit sketched above. This three-piece costume features a swag-top-coat of seven-eighths length. It is fashioned of a nubby, hair-cloth woolen in navy blue, has high, notched revers and two slash pockets.

The two-piece suit beneath is of the same material, the jacket having one-piece sleeve styling, self-button, four patch pockets and a belt of kid leather, while the plainly tailored skirt is slashed at the sides for a free hemline.

WHAT STARS TOLD CLIFF ABOUT GIRLS

Grace and Barbara are not a bit alike, but Cliff has always seemed to understand both of them amazingly well.

"The reason?" It's in the stars," Cliff said one day when they were all over at Amy's.

"What have the stars got to do with it?" laughed Barbara.

"Just this," explained Cliff. "I've been getting a few pointers on astrology from a little book of my brother's. Your birthday is January 28, Barbara, so that puts you in the house of Aquarius. Grace was born on December 27, so she is in the house of Capricorn. Now, since I was born January 18, when the influence of the house of Capricorn is beginning, I am naturally influenced by both."

"A dual personality are you?" asked Grace, and Barbara put in, "He is a nature at war with himself."

But after the joke had subsided, Grace wanted to know more about the Capricornians.

"Oh, they're frank, honest, outspoken, rather proud and shut in upon themselves, ambitious, industrious, a trifle gloomy," explained Cliff.

Aquarians are born reformers, unselfish, rather visionary, indifferent to money, quiet, serene, impatient of red tape, pretense, or soldiering. They work for the common good."

Social settlement work being her deepest interest, Barbara was a bit startled at all this.

"And I can seem to trace my own traits in both houses," admitted Cliff. "But don't rely on what I say for your knowledge of astrology. You ought to read up on it; it's fascinating."

Indeed it is, fascinating to spring at a party, to try out on the family or to check up on your friends. Every one is intrigued by an analysis of character. Our 48-page booklet, Numerology and Astrology, interestingly illustrated, treats both these subjects in simple terms. Easy, entertaining, challenging. You don't need to be a wizard to work things out by either system. To order your copy, use coupon.

Sanctions Modify Habits Of Italian Households As Nation Accepts Changes

By Charles H. Caplin.

Rome. (AP)—Sanctions imposed by the League of Nations have modified conspicuously the home life of Italy.

There probably are few families who do not recognize every day some change in their habits and customs which with varying degrees of bitterness they ascribe to "sanctions."

"Continuous hours" designed to save office light and fuel compel the breadwinners to appear at their work at 9 a. m., somewhat earlier for the average Italian. The two hour "siesta" has been replaced by one hour for lunch, but the day's work is ended at 4 p. m.

School Children Happy

The younger children may look upon sanctions with a less jaundiced eye than their elders. Elementary school hours were reduced to three daily and run from 10 o'clock to one.

Family entertainment has been restricted or rearranged. Theatres begin their performances early so as to close by 11 p. m. This means an earlier night meal which many an Italian dislikes, for he traditionally is a late diner.

After the theater the trip home-ward is made through streets in semi-darkness. Public illumination is cut in half at 10:30 p. m.

Many of the cafes and bars which formerly provided Rome's somewhat conservative "night life" are closed and their lights extinguished before midnight.

Sunday Auto Rides Stopped.

The Sunday automobile ride has been eliminated for most families by gasoline at $1.15 a gallon. A few motorists have installed charcoal burners in their autos, which, while expensive to purchase, are extraordinarily economical to operate.

Another diversion, the Sunday "popular trains," of which many a middle class family took advantage has been banished. These low priced excursions which Mussolini introduced to familiarize Italians with their own country were abolished along with half-a-hundred other trains when schedules were curtailed to save fuel.

The newspaper the Italian reads today is smaller—reduced to six pages to conserve newspaper which Italy imports.

The wedding rings Italians wear, if they are loyal, are iron, replacing the gold ones they gave to the country.

Women Fight Sanctions.

The women in particular are earnest in their insistence that only Italian or non-sanctioned products shall come into the home. Their fervor is reinforced constantly by flaming "bug Italian" and "destroy sanctions" posters displayed throughout the kingdom and by an unceasing propaganda campaign in the newspapers.

The stone-walled and stone-floored houses which Italians inhabit are colder than usual this winter.

"Sanctions" is the invariable excuse for chilly rooms. There is, however, sometimes occasion to believe that for many an apartment house owner or hotel proprietor "sanctions" is merely a handy euphemism for thriftiness.

WEST SHOKAN

It is expected that a delegation of the members of Shokan Lodge will attend the annual I. O. O. F. installation Tuesday evening at Phoenix.

Mr. Wagner of Main street, who has been ill for some time, is reported able to be about again.

Robert Pelen of Ashokan is noted riding about in a late model V-8 Ford coach.

Due to the icy streets in Kingston Bob Shults of Olive Bridge damaged his car in a collision with another machine on Friday. Both drivers. It is understood, agreed to pay for their own repairs.

Donald Bishop spent a recent evening with Charles H. Weidner of Locust Hill Farm.

Burton Barringer, youthful driver of the Coddington milk hauling truck, reports that Wilson Terwilliger, his predecessor, has pretty well recovered from his injuries sustained in a tussle with a cow, the effects of which kept him in bed for several weeks.

Cornelia Davis was unable to attend high school Monday due to having contracted a week-end indisposition.

Judge and Mrs. Fred L. Weidner of North Main street entertained out of town visitors recently.

Mrs. Datura Avery of Maple Dell Farm is planning to enlarge her turkey growing program for 1936. Above average success was attained with her first efforts last year.

Kenneth Barley, town of Olive collector, will hold his West Shokan collecting date on Friday, January 17 at William Colange's store.

Charles H. Weidner plans for an extensive hatching season soon to get under way at his Locust Hill plant. Mr. Weidner hums an optimistic tune for 1936 regarding the poultry industry.

Mrs. Egbert Boice entertained out of town members of the family on Sunday.

Fourteen members of Phoenixia Post, American Legion, scaled the lofty heights to the Chateau Hillman, Friday evening, January 9, where they were delightfully entertained at the home of Legionnaire Miner, caretaker of the Hillman estate. A savory chicken supper was served with the usual attending side lines. Old battles of land and sea were re-fought and the walls echoed with the lusty songs of World War days. The boys, so it appears, favor an annual event of a similar nature. Among those attending were Charles H. Weidner and Harlowe McLean, who are among the local members of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Avery of Maple Dell farm were numbered among the outdoor sports enthusiasts who visited the Woodland Valley ski run on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Avery and family of Watson Hollow were out of town motorists on Sunday.

Congratulations poured in from many friends upon the happy household of Mr. and Mrs. Peter R. Crawford of Olive Bridge who on Sunday, January 12, celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary.

Judge Henry Winchell with his congenial assistant of last year, William Boesmer, were around Saturday taking the west side Olive dog census. According to current tabulations the canine population appears dwindling.

Alonso Burgher, stalwart farm hand at Jordan Brothers, Broadhead Heights, was entertained Sunday at dinner at Maple Dell Farm.

Charles Duluff and his ever-ready man of all work, Edward Every, have completed the bridge across the Traver Hollow stream, gaining access to the timber on Martin Every's mountain lot. The span is 26 feet wide, supported by four heavy bed logs. The plankings was sawed from the sound trunks of spreading dead chestnut trees nearby, which were hauled to the Duluff mill at Boiceville.

Olive friends of Arthur H. Brown of Kingston are much pleased over his appointment by Sheriff Abram Molynaux to the post of assistant day jailer. Mr. Brown is a grandson of the late Homer Brown, a native of the town of Olive, who with his son, Victor, father of the incumbent, moved to Kingston at about the turn of the century. The Brown family, early settlers of the town, were prominently identified with its history in the making.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Herlihy and son, Henry, of Kraville, also Claude Gosselin of Herby, with a friend were among visitors last week at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winchell at Sunny Cliff.

A large and well fattened beef cow was slaughtered at Maple Dell Farm on Monday. Local customers provided a ready market for the surplus quarters not needed for home use. Sturdy and experienced Alvino Burgher assisted with the killing.

The sunny snow covered highway, lured numerous Kingston parties, who came out for an afternoon spin around the reservoir loop.

Merton Roe of West Shokan Heights is busy getting out his year's supply of firewood. A Watson Hollow road neighbor is assisting.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

Iceicle Maker

There hasn't been a real iceicle in Hollywood for many years, but that doesn't deter the movie prop men, who don't consider an exterior winter set well dressed unless it has iceicles. Among the iceicle makers Jack Baker ranks high. Once all iceicles were of fiber and wet plaster with mica dust sprinkled on the surface. Baker changed the system, developing several new types. Now he makes his iceicles of several layers of transparent paper, twisted and crushed into iceicle form, and then dipped in wax. Baker's iceicles have a peculiar advantage over those of other composition. Under studio lights the wax melts and drips exactly like water. Baker estimates his production of iceicles in the thousands.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Halves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to relieve itching, bleeding or protruding piles. This internal medicine acts quickly even in old stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it helps to heal and restore the affected parts and relieves blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and ointments often fail. McBride Drug Stores and all druggists say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must relieve you of your Pile misery or money back—Adv.

By C. E. NOTTERFIELD

Time is Eastern Standard.

New York, Jan. 15. (AP)—For the first time in their ten years of broadcasting, there wasn't any Andy in the Amos 'n' Andy skit on Tuesday night. Andy, who in real life is Charles J. Correll, had a night off so that he could attend a surprise party for his father, Joseph B., at Peoria, Ill., on the occasion of his seventieth anniversary. That is the explanation for the fact that the particular skit had only three characters, Amos, Brother Crawford and the Kingfish, all of which are portrayed by Freeman F. Gosden.

Because members of the United States Supreme Court have, in recent months, occasionally been referred to as "old men," the public may have gained a general impression that they are an old and virtually long-lived group. But, according to a survey made by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company statisticians, Supreme Court Justices, at the time of their appointment, have practically the same expectation of life as men of their ages in other professions. Tallied in 1929, the average age of Justices was 71.4 years. The survey covers the history of the Supreme Court members during the 144 years and the great

Milk, Will Power Help Wendy Add Weight; Jeanette 'Diets' On Exercise And Singing

The Hollywood parade unreeled and discovers Jeanette MacDonald (left), who finds exercise and singing keep her weight correct; Arline Judge, center, who is picking the right horses these days at the Santa Anita track; and Wendy Barrie, who suggests goat's milk when a few extra pounds are needed.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Unreal parade: Wendy Barrie's recipe to gain weight quickly: two quarts of goat's milk daily, plus will power where cigarettes are concerned. And Jeanette MacDonald's for the opposite weight results: none. Donald Loomis, Metro physical director, says Jeanette can eat potatoes at every meal, if she chooses. He is against taboos on potatoes and bread. "Jeanette MacDonald eats potatoes every day," he says, "and her weight never varies an ounce. Exercise, and the physical effort of singing, make this possible."

Arline Judge is getting a reputation for picking winners at the Santa Anita track—the just picks 'em, that's all, and manages to come out on top—our informant had no word on how Wesley Ruggles, Arline's spouse, fares.

Speaking Of Families

Boris Karloff was the youngest of nine children—Speaking of families, Michael Whalen really has relatives—ten years ago there were 84 that counted he knew in and around his home town, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—not counting those he knew of but didn't know.

Some one has been found for the Los Angeles river (which nine months a year is a dry ravine) and it proves that movies are resourceful. The stream runs past Universal's back lot. They dammed it, gave it a landscape make-up, and it served as a Sacramento river background for "Sutter's Gold."

The two sharks they need for the prison movie in "Prisoner of Shark Island" will be paid for at 20 cents a pound for fish weighing around 1,000 pounds each—if the schooner

Hiccough Catalogue

Ernie Alexander, the wobbly-legged movie drunk in "The Black Gang," is cataloguing the varieties of hiccoughing—So far he has them listed (with appropriate descriptions like those of Robert Willhack, the shoring specialist) as follows: plain, molar, silent, motionless, and the "Big Bertha"—the last the most dangerous, seizing its victim after he believes the attack is over.

At last, a real reason for an actor's keeping his home town secret! A young girl who had just won her first "break" requested it. "You see," she said, "I have about 40 relatives there, all poor. Two-thirds of them work for the railroad, and travel free!"

Dove and Pigeon

The words "dove" and "pigeon" are practically synonymous, but in ordinary usage "pigeon" is a somewhat broader term and is applied to all birds belonging to the family columbidae. Both terms are applicable to the domestic pigeon and to various wild species, but some of the smaller species of the family are specifically called doves, such as turtle doves, mourning doves, ground doves, to distinguish them from the larger species more commonly called pigeons.

Today

Broadway: "Dangerous." Warner Brothers would like to see Bette Davis become known to her movie public as a dramatic ball of fire and in order to help matters along, she is cast in a reckless role that gives her opportunity to spare in showing her violent temperament and her unquestioned acting ability. For in this latest picture in which she is starred, Miss Davis plays the role of an actress who has a jinx hovering over her in everything she does. Men who come in contact with her become ships lost in the meshes of the Sargasso Sea. She wrecks lives with a smile and a bitter laugh and it isn't until a wealthy and educated young architect comes along that the fireworks really start. The young architect is surprisingly well played by Franchot Tone. In fact his performance is so good that Miss Davis doesn't shine quite so brightly as expected. Others in the cast are Margaret Lindsay, Allison Skipworth and John Eldridge.

Orpheum: "Front Page" and "Kirma." Somewhere in the dim recesses of the past, the memory of the feature picture at the Orpheum comes back into focus and it is remembered as the best of the newspaper yarns, a startling, gripping melodrama produced by the youthful Howard Hughes with a cast that included Mary Brian, Adolphe Menjou and Pat O'Brien. "Kirma" continues to entertain on the Orpheum stage with feats of magic. Called the world's greatest mentalist, Kirma answers questions on many subjects for the edification and astonishment of his audiences.

Dream Girl
Bernard Austin Dwyer
Co. 224, CCC Camp.
He sits on his cot at sunset.
When the shades of the day deploy,
And a smile of infinite longing
Curves the lips of the boy.

A cigarette's white in his fingers—
The match for a minute gleams—
Then leanness smoke waves wander,
And his soul's drift to dreams.

And "What do you dream, dear young star?"
I ask, and his voice replies,
"Of a marvelous, intricate maiden,
A mirror of Paradise."

"Her cheeks are the hills at sunset—
Her voice is the wind at dawn—
Her hair is the radiant, sun-filled sky,
After the stars are gone."

"She speaks—and the winds are silent;
She sings—and the skylarks cease,
And harkens in rapturous rapture,
More marvelous melodies—"

"Her hair, like the woods at twilight,
Reflecting star dust, shines—
Her eyes are the pure white Norway stars,
Over the Norway pines."

"Those days of the vanished summer!
How I recollect them now!
The lonely little village,
At the foot of the mountain's brow:

"Our walks and our talks together,
When the summer sun shone clear—
Our swims in the rippling waters
Of a starlit dusk at the Veil."

"Shall we ride once more, I wonder,
In the little rattling car,
Where beneath the curve of the mountain
The white road stretches far—"

"Shall we ever more go skating,
Where the winter moonlight gleams,
And the flashing ice, and the sparkling sky

Weave a wonderland of dreams?"
"I wonder if I shall see her,
Will fate bring back to me?
Those days of the grass field summer—
Those nights that used to be?"

He stops—and his voice is silent:
The long, low barracks room—
He looks at the winter moonlight,
And his thoughts are far away.

The cigarette burns in his fingers;
The last red rays of day
Shine in at the western window—
And his thoughts are far away.

The only thrill worthwhile is the one that comes from making something out of yourself.

Wedding Guest—This is your fourth daughter to get married, isn't it?
Sandy MacTight—Aye, and our

A Simple Truth
A president may never win
The hearts of all our fickle rout;
On March the Fourth we swear him in,
But after that we cuss him out.

St. Peter (kindly)—You'll have

Widow—Well, just before he died
Joe turned to me and said: "Mary,
if you ever kiss another man I'll turn

St. Peter—Oh, sure, I know him.

"United Front" Brings Drive For Bonus Nearer The Goal

Four Presidents used their veto power on bonus measures but none so dramatically as President Roosevelt who took the veto measure to Congress in person and delivered his veto message before a joint session of the house and senate. The President is shown above speaking on that precedent-breaking occasion.

Washington (AP)—The soldiers' bonus has been a headache to every President for the past 16 years.

Four have used their veto power in an effort to stave off the demands of World War veterans. Twice the President's position was sustained and twice his stand reversed by Congress.

President Harding was the first to face the music. In 1922, some four years after the war ended, Congress passed the first bonus measure. It provided four different types of optional settlements which the veterans were allowed to elect:

1. Adjusted service pay;
2. Paid-up endowment insurance;
3. Vocational training aid;
4. Farm or home aid.

On September 19, 1922, Harding vetoed the act and his veto was sustained.

In 1924, Congress passed a bill which had as its object the issuance of adjusted service certificates. It became law after Congress had overridden President Coolidge's veto May 19, 1924.

Drumman Reaches Peak
In 1925 Congress passed the emergency compensation act. This act provided that loans up to 50 per cent of the face value of the adjusted service certificates could be obtained.

President Hoover in a vigorously worded message to Congress vetoed it, but the Senate overrode the veto 76 to 17 and the House 328 to 79.

During President Roosevelt's administration came the most dramatic skirmish between the legislative and executive branches. The issue was made in 1925 by those who wished to tie up cash bonus payment with proposed changes in the nation's monetary system.

The Patman bill, providing payment of full value of the adjusted service certificates in new currency of the United States—greenbacks—passed both houses of Congress.

Personal Message
President Roosevelt went to the capital to deliver his veto message on the Patman bill before a joint session of Congress. He hardly had returned to the White House before the House overwhelmingly overrode his veto. The Senate stood by the President.

The pressure for full and immediate payment of the bonus has been terrific for a number of years. Here is what has happened since the drive was started in earnest:

June 13, 1925: House passed a bill, 211 to 125.

June 17, 1925: The bill was defeated in the Senate, 62 to 18.

April 24, 1926: It was proposed as an amendment to pending legislation, but defeated in the Senate 40 to 28.

January 21, 1928: Bonus legislation was proposed again in the Senate as an amendment to pending legislation, but defeated without a recorded vote.

February 22, 1928: It once more was proposed as an amendment to pending legislation in the Senate, but was defeated 64 to 24.

March 12, 1928: The House passed a bill by a vote of 285 to 125.

June 6, 1928: The bill was rejected unfavorably in the Senate by the Senate Finance Committee and never brought to a vote.

June 17, 1928: Proposed at 22

A CHAGRINED REPUBLICAN CHIEF

Imagine the chagrin of Henry P. Fletcher, national Republican chairman, when he tried to tune in on an anti-New Deal radio skit, and got music instead. Two major networks refused to broadcast the program and Fletcher—in Washington—was unable to pick it up from a Chicago station. Here he registers resignation as he shows how his radio failed him. KINGSTON SAVINGS BANKEverybody Knows that the Freeman Cent-a-Word Ads. Bring Quick Results. Try Them!2 Important Announcements about REDUCED LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE RATES*1. STARTING TONIGHT, 7 o'clock (Jan. 15 and every night thereafter), MOST PERSON-TO-PERSON RATES REDUCED

For several years, reductions in night rates ranging from about 10% to more than 40% have been in effect on most station-to-station calls for which the day rate is more than 35¢. Now there will also be a reduction in person-to-person rates after 7 P.M. to those points where there is now a station-to-station reduction. The reductions range from about 9% to more than 30% on calls for which the present rate is more than 50¢.

2. STARTING SUNDAY . . . (Jan. 19 and every Sunday thereafter), REDUCED NIGHT RATES IN EFFECT ALL DAY SUNDAY!

Effective Next Sunday, the low rates in operation for long distance telephoning after 7 P.M. will apply all day Sunday. This extension of night rates to all day Sunday includes both station-to-station and person-to-person calls to most points. It means that you can enjoy "bargain" rates from 7 P.M. Saturday until 4:30 A.M. Monday.

A GAIN—the sixth time in the past ten years—savings on long distance telephone calls are announced. Now you can make person-to-person as well as station-to-station calls to most points at reduced rates after 7 P.M., and these same bargain rates will also be in effect all day Sunday. Why not take advantage of these bargains next Sunday by making a call to that boy or girl away at school, the folks back home, your favorite aunt or childhood chum? The Long Distance operator will gladly give you the rate to the place you want to call.

STATION-TO-STATION VS. PERSON-TO-PERSON When you telephone out of town and will talk to anyone at the number called—that is a "station-to-station" call. But if you must talk to only one particular individual, whose name you give to the operator—that is a "person-to-person" call.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

Flanagan's Beholds A "Silent" Woman

Flanagan's clothing store show window is the center of attraction on Wall street today. It is so because a young lady, not hard to look at, is lying there asleep on a cot, something novel for the uptown haberdashery to offer in the way of an exhibit.

The beautiful Miss was put to sleep Wednesday evening at 7:30 by Kirma the hypnotist as a crowd gathered outside of Flanagan's to watch the act. He will awaken her tonight at the Orpheum Theatre where he is appearing on the stage performing mental feats that are amazing.

Last night Kirma, the young lady and Al Flanagan, popular fullback of the Yellow Jacket football team, who was asked to assist, went into the show window. Kirma extended his hands and uttered a few "aba dabs" or whatever hypnotists say, and the beauty swooned into the arms of the husky football player who placed her on the cot.

Today at noon Kirma was to feed the young lady with milk from the Half Moon dairy and Grusenwald's Home Leader Bread.

Brazee Falls Into The Rondout Creek

William Brazee, 22, of Maple street joined the Polar Bear Club this morning, but he didn't mean to. And only for William Brown of Gill street, "Willie" might have lost his life.

Young Brazee, who works for the Kaplan Furniture Company, 14 East Strand, initiated himself in the Polar Bear Association when he fell into the Rondout creek. He slipped on a piece of ice along the dock in back of the Kaplan warehouse and splashed into the icy waters of the Rondout.

Brazee clung to a piece of wood on the dock and called for help. He cannot swim. The cold water was getting the best of him and he was about to let go when William Brown came to his rescue. The former boatyard worker who was walking along the dock lay flat on the ground and extended his arms so that Brazee could reach them. Then he pulled him to safety.

Harry Kaplan of the downtown furniture concern sent Brazee home immediately and advised that a physician be summoned to treat him to prevent any ill that might come to him after his experience.

Important Meeting V. F. W.

Business Girls Hear Talk by Dr. Taylor

At the regular weekly supper of the Y. W. C. A. Business Girls' Club on Wednesday evening, the guest speaker for the evening was Dr. J. S. Taylor of the Kingston City Laboratory. Dr. Taylor gave a valuable talk on "Cancer," describing symptoms and stating definitely that if discovered in the incipient stage, cancer can be cured. But he warned against the putting off of examination even if there seems to be a possibility of cancer, since it is only early cases for which the various remedies have been found to be efficacious. It was the speaker's opinion that if the public could be educated as to the symptoms of cancer and the knowledge of the cure in early stages, and against the phobia of putting off seeing a doctor because of fear of what might be his verdict, there would come a great reduction in fatalities from the dread disease. Next Wednesday evening the Business Girls' Club will initiate new members into the club.

HOT WATER ALL THE TIME

OF COURSE no one doubts the supreme convenience of day-around, and year-around hot water service, but there are families, and yours may be one of them, who have thought that this modern service cost more than they could afford.

NOW you may know in advance just what it will cost you to have automatic gas water-heating. The new, simplified heaters use only a limited amount of gas—cannot use more—and you may know in advance just what the maximum cost for gas will be!

Then why not find out for yourself whether or not you can afford this economical luxury? You may be paying as much right now, for lesser service.

This new-type automatic unit may be attached, easily and inexpensively to your present tank. Together with a new circulating cover on your tank, it makes your present water-heating system completely automatic.

Jammed Speed Meter Gives Clue to Wreck Of Plane in Arkansas

Goodwin, Ark., Jan. 16 (AP)—Investigators dug a jammed speed indicator today from the muddy swamp where 17 persons died in the crash of a luxury airliner and thereby found their first clue to the cause of the nation's worst plane travel disaster.

The official inquiry, headed by Eugene L. Vidal, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, must depend on mute evidence to fix the cause of "The Southerner's" plunge Tuesday night.

None aboard the giant plane when it ripped down into the wooded Arkansas swamp was left alive.

The pitifully torn bodies of the four women, 12 men and a child were being returned to their families today while state rangers stood guard over the twisted wreckage to prevent further looting.

The air speed indicator, jammed at 180 miles an hour—nearly three times the plane's landing speed—was a clue as well as a clue.

With it, buried deep in the mud, were found the ignition switch, which were on, and the switch controlling the landing lights. It was off.

The big twin-motored Douglas had a top speed of about 200 miles, cruised at 180-190 and landed at 45-70. Thus if the broken instrument showed the speed at the time of impact, "The Southerner" was thundering along at full cruising speed when it smashed into the trees.

Official theories of the tragedy were:

Shortly after the "all well" sent from 2,000 feet at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night some mechanical trouble developed swiftly. Pilot Jerry Marshall came down and was heading for an open, water-covered rice field some 200 yards from the crash spot when the ship was dragged down by the trees.

Through some unexplained failure of mechanical aids he was unaware that he was so close to the ground and tore into the trees at full speed with no previous warning of the peril.

State rangers watched near the wrecked ship to prevent parts of the plane removed by thousands of sightseers who flocked to the area.

The rangers were sent to the scene after reports that clothing of one or more of the victims had been looted.

V. L. Fray, Federal revenue officer stationed at Forrest City, said the robbery of the victims started soon after the wreckage was discovered.

He said he saw an unidentified man seize what appeared to be a roll of bills from the pocket of one of mangled passengers and flee.

"I would have shot at him but I was afraid of hitting someone else in the dark," Fray said.

The discovery of empty pocket-books on the ground was reported by other officers.

TYPE OF PLANE WHICH FELL IN SWAMP

This is the type of plane—a giant twin-motored Douglas—that fell near Goodwin, Ark., carrying 17 persons to their deaths. The plane was so badly wrecked that officials doubted if the reason for the mishap could be determined. (Associated Press Photo)

Above is shown the locality near Goodwin, Ark., where the big Douglas transcontinental plane crashed into a swamp, killing 14 passengers and a crew of three. The ship was en route to Los Angeles from New York.

Some Famous Optimists
St. Thomas Aquinas and his followers endorsed the theory that this is the best of all possible worlds. In the Renaissance, Giordano Bruno voiced a feeling of world-wide joy, a universal optimism. At the beginning of the 18th century the English philosopher Shaftesbury found in the beauty and harmony of the universe reason for enthusiasm of thought and living. The optimism of Rousseau was based upon his belief in the nature of man as God intended.

CHILD CUT ON HEAD WHEN TWO CARS COLLIDED HERE

Christian Spalt of 9 Cross street, reported to the police department last night that while driving on Broadway his car had struck the rear of a car of Mildred Gunzelman, of 589 Broadway, and that his child had been thrown against the windshield of his car and cut on the head.

He said he had taken the child to the hospital where the wound was dressed. Mildred Gunzelman also reported to the police that the Spalt car had struck the rear of her car, damaging the fender.

A good refrigerator with 6 cubic feet of food space, in a room at 90 degrees, use about 50 kilowatts of electrical energy a month, or 900 pounds of ice, or 12 gallons of kerosene, or 1,800 cubic feet of gas.

These are figures from the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

It may be a dog's delight to bark and bite, but the breed of the animal is no safe indication of how much biting he will do. "It is possible," says S. R. Speelman, animal husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture, "to find in various breeds dogs with good, bad and indifferent dispositions." He prefers to look at dogs as individuals, much as most of us look at other humans. Breeding, he says, is of some significance, of course, but individuality may be of more importance.

Dr. Snyder Resigns From Kingston ERB

Dr. Frederick Snyder has filed his resignation as a member of the local ERB with Mayor Holselman, asking that it take effect at once.

Mayor Holselman accepted the resignation with regret. Dr. Snyder in resigning from the ERB stated that he felt that as the new board appointed earlier in the month was now functioning tioning that he would like to devote his entire time to his private practice.

Mayor Holselman paid a tribute to the services of Dr. Snyder, who had charge of the medical division of the ERB, and under his administration it was considered one of the best medical divisions in the state.

In fact so well did it function that the State TERA officials had specifically asked the mayor to induce Dr. Snyder to continue in charge.

NO ALKALIES FOR ACID INDIGESTION

MILLIONS have found they do not need to drench their stomachs with strong, caustic alkalies. Physicians have said this habit often brings further acid indigestion. So much more safe and sensible to simply carry a roll of Tums in your pocket. Munch 3 or 4 after meals—or whenever troubled by heartburn, gas, sour stomach. Try them when you feel the effects of last night's party, or when you smoke too much. Tums contain a wonderful antacid which neutralizes acid in the stomach, but never over-alkalizes stomach or blood. As pleasant to eat as candy and only 10¢ at any drug store.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JACOB

New York, Jan. 11 (AP).—Share market prices slid along quietly in a narrow groove today.

Steels and specialties did best, with a few gains of a point or more. There was quiet strength in some of the farm equipments. Oils met a little realizing.

Brief activity and early general improvement both disappeared as the session wore on. Some irregularity in the second hour was later ironed out.

Bethlehem Steel and Greyhound advanced around 2 points each, while gains of major fractions to a point or so appeared in Consolidated Gas, Newport Industries, American Chain, International Harvester, Deere, American Telephone, Pearsall Steel Car and United Gas Improvement.

Evans Products, Standard Oil of N. J., Pennsylvania and General Motors eased.

Foreign exchanges generally yielded in dollar terms. Cotton edged down while corn and wheat were very narrow. Bonds were a little improved.

Gloves Were Prized as

Wedding Gifts Long Ago

Gloves are seldom found among wedding presents, but there was a time, in old England, when brides were very pleased with such a gift. For in those days, they were stuffed with coins, the equivalent of the modern gift of a cheque, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

There are people living in Belgium who can remember a queer wedding ceremony in their country, when the officiating priest asked the groom for a ring and a pair of gloves, preferably red, with three bits of silver money in them. Putting the gloves into the groom's right hand, he joined this with the right hand of the bride, and then, solemnly parting the clasped hands, he left the gloves in the grasp of the bride.

The most expensive of gloves women can buy are cheap compared with those worn by men of high rank 200 years ago. At the Earl of Arran's sale, in 1750, a pair given by King Henry VIII to Sir Anthony Denny were bought for £22. And a pair of mittens fetched £25. They are said to be preserved in an Irish collection and to be among the oldest gloves in the world.

But long before then, men and women were wearing gloves. A Greek historian tells of a contemporary who put on his gloves before sitting down to a meal so that he could tear his meat to pieces while it was still too hot for his guests to tackle.

Secret of Pre-Inca Dyes

Revealed in Mummy Packs

Dye-stuffs and cosmetics of Peruvians, old Pre-Inca site in Peru, have been studied by a professor of industrial chemistry at Santa Fe university, Argentina. Rich textiles found in Peruvian mummy packs reveal the finest old world tapestries. Because of their brightness after many centuries' burial in the earth, speculation was aroused as to coloring matters used. Ancient "yellow grease," that is to say, careful workmanship rather than miraculous dye-stuffs, account for the results, analyses disclose. In their descriptions of dyeing methods used by the Incas of Conquest times, who probably inherited their knowledge from people of Peruvians and other predecessors, the Spanish monks enumerated ten good vegetable dyes in use, although most Inca work was also done with indigo and cochineal on naturally tinted llama wool. In dyeing intermediate shades on cotton, one color was dyed over another to obtain desired tones. The Incas knew the use of mordants. Their textiles were the envy of the Spaniards.—Montreal Herald.

Story of Damon and Pythias

Damon and Pythias were citizens of Syracuse and were great friends. Pythias was arrested and condemned to death by the tyrant Dionysius the Younger, but obtained permission first to go to his home to spend several days in arranging his affairs, on condition that his friend Damon would agree to remain as hostage and to suffer the penalty should Pythias fail to return. Pythias did not return at the time appointed, and Damon presented himself for execution, but expressed his unfeigned belief that his friend had been unavoidably detained and would appear if humanly possible. The spectators, who pitied his credulity, proceeded to the place of execution. Pythias, having been detained, arrived on the scene and rushed through the crowd to take the place of Damon, who refused to give it up. Each determined to die for the other. The tyrant, himself present, struck with so great a friendship pardoned both and begged to make the third in such a loyal alliance.

The "Laughing Jackass"

Strangers to Australia may hear what sounds like the braying of a jackass in the woods. Investigation, however, will disclose a noisy-looking, colorful bird on the order of the kingfisher, but much larger. It is the look-alike, native to Australia, one of the brightest and most mischievous of birds living. It is known as the "laughing jackass" because of its braying note, and as the "cetter's clock" because it utters its peculiar cry regularly at dawn and at dusk. It eats insects, snakes and small mammals, killing the larger prey by flying high with its victim in its beak and dropping it to destruction.

Most Terrible of Frontiers

The most terrible of frontiers is that between Russia and China, where a broad belt of No Man's Land lies between the two countries, protected by barbed-wire fences. It is literally a dead line, for it is as much as any man's life is worth to attempt to cross it. Yet smugglers sometimes manage to do so, but whether by stealth or bribery it is hard to know. It is a capital offense for any Russian to leave his country without a passport.—Answers Magazine.

Naara, Former German Island

Naara, former German island possession in the North Pacific ocean, midway between the Marshall and Solomon Islands was captured by the Australians in 1914. At the close of the World War Great Britain, New Zealand and Australia had by agreement, in July, 1917, acquired joint control of the phosphate deposits, which constitute the sole value of the island. However, after the outbreak of the World War, the Australian Government gave complete dominion.

Great Britain Took Much

as Spoils of World War

Great Britain acquired a great part of the former German colonies by conquest during the World war, also a large part of the old Turkish empire. Much of this is held, notes a writer in the Detroit News, not as colonies, but as mandated territory under the League of Nations. It includes: Southwest Africa, 322,383 square miles, administered under mandate by the Union of South Africa; Tanganyika (formerly German East Africa), 366,632 square miles, administered under mandate; British Togoland, 13,041 square miles, under mandate but part of Gold Coast colony; British Cameroons, 34,550 square miles, under mandate; part of British West Africa; territory of New Guinea, 93,000 square miles, under mandate to Australia; Western Samoa, 1,137 square miles, under mandate to New Zealand; Palestine, 10,100 square miles, under mandate; Mesopotamia or Iraq was formerly under British mandate, but this was terminated in 1927 when Great Britain recognized Iraq as an independent state.

Test "Fighting" Bulls

Only 30 per cent of the bulls bred for fighting are really brave animals of the kind bullfighters like to have in the ring. The bulls are tried out by the stockmen by methods which are not unlike intelligence tests used for persons. The bull is separated from his fellows, who are driven swiftly away while a mounted man feints an attack on him. If the bull resists his natural temptation to run after his fellows, and instead remains alone and attempts to charge his attacker then he is written down as being a first-rate bull, provided, of course, that his physical qualities are satisfactory. He must weigh more than half a ton and have good eyesight; this latter is very important, for if his eyesight is defective he may fail to follow the cape which the fighter swings before him and quite unwittingly crash into the matador before that worthy can sidestep.

Mineral Finders

The various forked twigs, witch-sticks, dowsing-rods, etc., used by so-called diviners of water, oil and minerals in the ground, have no scientific sanction. An article on the subject in Arkermann's "Popular Fallacies" gives the views of many scientists in opposition to the claims of these diviners. There are geo-physical instruments employed by prospectors and mineralogists; these consist of magnetometers, electrometers, radiometers, gravimeters, seismometers, etc. Used by experts who understand our face indications and geological formation, these instruments are a powerful aid to the location of underground minerals.

Westminster Abbey "Foot's Corner"

The southern end of the south transept of Westminster Abbey is said to have been first called "Foot's Corner" by Oliver Goldsmith because it contained the tomb of Chaucer. Addison had previously alluded to it as the poetical quarter. Besides Chaucer's tomb it includes that of Spenser and either the tombs of or monuments to Dryden, Ben Jonson, Shakespeare, Milton, Samuel Butler, Davenant, Cowley, Prior, Gay, Addison, Thomson, Goldsmith, Dryden, Doctor Johnson, Sheridan, Burns, Smollett, Coleridge, Campbell, Macaulay, Longfellow, Dickens, Thackeray, Tennyson and Browning.

Bat-Tailed Maggot

About the middle of the eighteenth century Reaumur, known also for his thermometer, wrote about the life histories of insects, and it was he who named the Bat-tailed Maggot. This insect is very interesting, but it usually lives in food water such as animal privies and the fluid in decaying carcasses. The yellow and black adult resembles a bee. The long tail of the larva lengthens and shortens like a telescope, so that the tip may reach the top of the water, and the larva breathes air through it while feeding on decaying matter, under the water. Pupation takes place out of the water in the larval skin.—Montreal Herald.

Mrs. Florence M. Harris, a well known and highly respected resident of this city, died last evening following a long illness. She was born in Canada, the daughter of the late John and Mary Brown Forhan and came to this city over 50 years ago, where by her fine Christian character and by her devotion to her family and friends had endeared herself to all who knew her. Her husband, the late Eugene A. Harris, died 16 years ago and surviving are two daughters, Mrs. John W. Steltz and Miss Hannah Harris, of this city; two sons, Joseph of W. Funeral services for the late Olive L. Krom Bush, wife of Gerald Bush, were held at the family home, 34 Lafayette avenue, January 8, conducted by the Rev. Arthur B. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church, of which Mrs. Bush had been a member since she was ten years of age. The sincerity of her religious belief had been demonstrated from young girlhood, in the spirit of service which she manifested and throughout her life, especially noticeable in the later years of her invalidism and suffering, which she bore with great faith and cheerfulness. At an early age she showed an aptitude for poetry and the King's Herald's band song which she wrote when a girl for use in the missionary society of which she was president has been used since that time. During her later years, when her health was such that she could no longer continue active church work, she found opportunity in her poetry, published in Kaleidograph, several medical magazines and anthologies of poetry to express her love for all the beauty in Nature and to give a glimpse of her faith in the highest religious ideals. Gifted as an artist and violinist she made known through these talents also the beauty of thought and emotion which molded her life of gentleness and helpfulness to others. It was these qualities, in her daily living, which endeared her to all who came in contact with her, not only in Kingston, but in Hurley, where she formerly made her home.

Overcoming Fools

It is not so much being free from faults and imperfections as overcoming them that is an advantage to us; it being with faults and weaknesses and errors, as with the weeds of a field, which, if destroyed on the soil where they grow, enrich and improve it, more than if they had never sprung up there.

Zionists Held Monthly Meeting

On Monday evening, January 13, the Zionist Organization of Kingston held its monthly meeting in the Vestry Room of Temple Emanuel. After a business meeting Rabbi Bloom discussed Jewish current events with special reference to Commissioner MacDonald's resignation from his post. The president, Dr. Harold Mandell, appointed a committee to meet for the consideration of a possible campaign in Kingston for the United Palestine Appeal. The committee is to convene at Dr. Mandell's residence Tuesday, January 21. At the same time the Hadassah Zionist Organization of Kingston held its monthly meeting in another room of Temple Emanuel.

After the business was transacted the president, Mrs. Ben Lever, gave a report of a tea held in the Astor Hotel, New York, in honor of Miss Henrietta Szold. Mrs. M. Mandell also attended the tea. Special reference was made to Hadassah's new enterprise, the Youth Aliyah, the settling of refugee Jewish youth in Palestine.

Later in the evening the Zionist and the Hadassah group were addressed by the Rev. Howard D. McGrath, of the Clinton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. The Rev. McGrath spoke on "What Palestine means to a Christian." He pointed out that in some intangible way Palestine has produced perhaps the highest type of religious and ethical thought. He indicated that his interest in Palestine was not mere sentimentalism but rather a high regard for those ideals which were taught to mankind by Jesus and the prophets.

Wonderful Ruins of Angkor

At Angkor, in Cambodia, Indo-China, may be seen the most wonderful ruins in the Far East, ruins on a huge scale, exceeding even the temple of Borobodor, in Java. Aside from the supreme perfection of the Taj Mahal, there is nowhere such exquisite architecture, such evidence of human capability as at Angkor. Here creative man seemed to have reached heights that astonish the great architects of today.

the planes, were left behind. Only scientific equipment and necessary stores were taken and the men were instructed to take only what they absolutely needed. The equipment must be hauled out quickly to the ship so the men, already packed for the getaway, were compelled to open duffel bags and throw away all unnecessary equipment.

Second Expedition. When the second expedition arrived in 1933 and the camp was first seen there was great anxiety to see in just what condition the camp would be. He described the landing of the equipment and the first trip to camp. When they arrived they found the buildings practically covered with snow, the radio towers still stood and while one tower was tipped by a movement of ice the equipment was still visible. When the camp was reached on the ice the men dug into the old buildings and the sight of disorder which greeted their eyes he said was amusing. Clothing hastily tossed to one side in the hurried departure of the previous expedition he said presented a sight. When the first expedition left it was not contemplated that the camp ever would be inhabited again.

This camp at Little America, he said, was built on ice and under the ice was known to be about 1,600 feet of water. The camp was covered with only about five feet of snow when the second expedition arrived after an absence of five years.

He told very vividly of the excitement which was felt as their ships approached the ice shelf. It was not known whether the former camp would be existing after five years or not.

When the second expedition arrived they found many startling things. In the mess hall was a roast of pork still on the table where it had hastily been abandoned after the last meal of the previous expedition. When they entered the buildings one of the men in a joking manner turned on one of the electric lights in the mess hall and was startled to find that the batteries had held power enough over the five years' absence to light the bulb. Another man went to the telephone which had connected the buildings and turned the crank and a man in an adjoining building was surprised to hear the tinkle of the telephone bell. He answered and the man who had rung the bell was more startled to hear a voice on the wire say, "What do you want?"

As it would be impossible to dig out the old camp and erect a new camp on the same level the second camp was built at a higher elevation but the old buildings were used.

Layout of Camp. Siple told of the layout of the camp and how the buildings were used. His department, the laboratory, was used by 15 men for all kinds of scientific work. In the bacteriological department was a four men who were to study sea life, etc. He told of the difficulties of getting all of the equipment up to the camp from the ship. Over a distance which could be easily seen over were found unsafe passages and it was necessary to draw the equipment by sled and tractor over an eight mile route from ship to camp. This took a couple of months of hard work. He trained the work of the tractors which the expedition carried and said they were a vast improvement over the ones of the prior one. Improvements gained by experience had made their use more practical. On the first expedition he said much difficulty was experienced by the tractors breaking down under the heavy work. One party had gone out 80 miles when a tractor broke down and the men had to walk home.

Crevasse which were discovered after the supplies were at camp he said made it advisable to move the supplies to more solid ice. Little America he said was actually on an ice floor which floated up and down and it was not until winter cold froze the barrier into a solid piece that the camp was safe.

Mr. Siple said that one of the things which had been planned was to send expeditions or parties into the interior to study weather conditions during the winter season. On the first expedition trips had been made by plane into the interior and mountain ranges which were discovered had been photographed and these photographs then placed together to form charts. One of the plans of the second expedition was to send parties into this territory where no man had ever traveled before and secure scientific data and specimens of rock or any plant or animal life which might exist. It was known that huge mountain ranges existed but no human eye had ever seen them before.

The Temperature. Siple was selected to lead a party of three into the interior and establish a camp for three men where the winter season was to be spent in study of weather conditions so that this data might be compared to weather conditions at the ice barrier. He told of the difficulties of the work. At the sea the air is tempered and it seldom drops below 50 degrees below zero, although temperatures as low as 70 below have been experienced. Interior temperatures have been recorded as low as 100 degrees below zero. In summer the Antarctic temperatures are usually above zero but never above freezing. In winter the temperature seldom gets above zero.

It was a month before the sun was to disappear that the work of establishing the interior camp was started. There had been delay in getting the equipment unloaded. In order to get the camp on the glacier an expedition of six planes was sent to get the supplies and loaded with supplies. The planes crashed and it was abandoned. On March 12 the expedition for the interior started with tractors hauling the supplies. It was 20 below when they started. The planes were with a high wind. The party finally reached a point 100 miles inland and there established a camp. Later Byrd flew out and after looking over the place and the supplies which had been hauled out decided that there would not be supplies to last three men so he determined to stay at the camp himself. Mr. Siple said that Byrd knew of the dangers of one man remaining in the camp all winter cut off from the main camp and he refused to assign anyone to the task but preferred to take the chance himself. The other men went back and Byrd remained. It is known how Byrd became ill but refused to disclose that fact to his men for fear they would start out in the winter cold with a relief expedition only to be frozen to death. He told of the return of the men in the spring and the fact that Byrd was so ill they had to remain for some time to nurse him back to health so that the trip to Little America could be undertaken.

Power of Long Night. The reason Byrd did not retain a companion with him he said was because of the long solitude which made it impossible for any two men to get along together. Many a story could be heard of two men locked in the arctic night who gradually became opposed to each other's company until they reached the breaking point and usually it was but one man who returned to civilization in the spring. It was this thing that prevented Byrd keeping a companion with him.

Siple told of the difficulty which the rescue party had to reach Byrd. A trail had been left by placing flags every sixth mile but in storm and darkness these flags were missed and it was not until the third attempt had been made that the relief expedition reached the shack where Byrd was ill. Orders had been that when the men became lost and could not find the trail they were to return to Little America. Twice this had to be done.

Later when summer returned Siple said three expeditions were sent out from Little America to make scientific observations. One went to Edsel Ford mountains and he was assigned to that party. One party went to the Queen Maud range and one to Marie Byrd Land.

He told how the charting was done. A charge of dynamite was set off in the ice and the reflection of the explosion would penetrate the ice floor and reflect back. This reflection was photographed by a very delicate instrument and by the reflections which came back the depth of the ice and water could be determined and a chart made.

Trip To Ford Range. As leader of one party of four men Siple set out on October 14 with three dog teams of nine dogs each for Edsel Ford Range. As food for the dogs alone they carried a ton and half. For the men they carried concentrated food which had been scientifically prepared. All supplies were reduced to a minimum to reduce weight. He showed the various articles of clothing which were worn for warmth and for lightness. For 77 days this expedition traveled into the mountains from the base camp. Temperatures of 52 degrees below with an 18 mile wind he said made travel difficult. In high winds it was impossible to go out at all.

At a distant point the four men split into two parties so as to cover the most ground with their limited supplies. He told of the first view of the mountains which were being seen for the first time by man. In one valley they found pink ice. This ice when melted was found to contain millions of pink microscopic bodies which gave it the pink hue. High on the mountains he said they found two dozen kinds of plant life. Plants which were dormant for months and had but a few days in summer to grow. He told of finding bird rookeries 100 miles from the ocean which is the only supply of food for birds. These birds he said flew 10 miles for a meal and brought fish back to their young.

On the second Byrd expedition five of the men had been Eagle Scouts. They had not been selected for that reason but their experience as Eagle Scouts had made them qualified for the experience. Nearly Lost Lives. It was on this trip that he and his companion nearly lost their lives. There came a day of overcast sky. Dressed for time they kept on but it was impossible to see ahead due to the queer light. Elevations or depressions were not visible. They believed they saw a valley and struck out for it. They were suddenly surrounded by many dangerous crevasses. A crevasse is a deep crack in the ice hundreds of feet deep and in some places bridged over by snow. A crevasse never fills up from the bottom but snow is blown across and a bridge forms. These bridges often are thick enough to support a dog team or even a tractor but the danger lies in the bridge breaking and the men and supplies dropping into the crevasse. For hours they stumbled through crevasse country and only by good fortune missed the dangerous pitfalls. Next day they arose to find they were in crevasse country. On all sides they were hemmed in. How in the wild light of the previous day they had avoided disaster he could not tell. The valley was named "Valley of Crevasses." Later on they found an extinct volcano.

With supplies running low they started back to join their companions. In an attempt to locate their trail over which they had come in they were lost and could not locate the old trail. It was while trying to cross through this crevasse country that the sled and dogs with their supplies dropped into a crevasse. A safety rope kept the sled from dropping out and it was only by removing the equipment piece by piece that they were able to rescue the sled and their 300 pounds of rock samples. Back to Camp. After five and one-quarter hours their equipment was back on the trail and they rejoined the base camp days later. Many other incidents were cited in a very interesting talk and when plans were made the audience was reluctant to let Siple go so interesting had been his talk. R. F. Overburgh, president of the Council, presented and he introduced C. K. Rowland, president of the T. M. C. A. and Vice president of the T. M. C. A. A North pledged their support and cooperation to the Byrd Scout movement. Paul Zerna and his companions supplied music during the dinner and

Paul in his popular manner led in song. At the close of the meeting dancing was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark of Athens were celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary were introduced by Mr. Overburgh.

At the afternoon session the following officers were elected and the following new council members were elected:

POULTRY CLUB ADOPTS EGG GRADING RESOLUTION

The Ulster County Poultry Club at one of its regular meetings on Monday night adopted a resolution favoring better enforcement of the retail egg grading law for the protection of all consumers. A. P. Kaplan of Accord, vice president of the club, presided because John Miller, the president, was on the program.

The main speaker was Prof. R. C. Ogilvie who spoke on the "Results at the Egg Laying Tests and Their Value to Commercial Poultrymen." He pointed out that total food intake is the important item in egg production and not the exact proportion of grain and mash as previously supposed. The big crowd was very much interested in the talk. After brief discussion the following resolution was unanimously adopted: Whereas, there is a distinct need of better enforcement of the State Egg Grading Law for the protection of the consumer in buying eggs; and whereas it has been stated that an item in the budget of the Department of Agriculture has been reduced through the efforts of certain retail grocers, making it impossible for said department to hire the additional inspectors needed; be it resolved that this club go on record again as favoring complete enforcement of the Egg Grading Law to enable the consumer to buy the exact quality of eggs desired and secure the grade paid for; and be it further resolved that the officers of the club make every effort to secure a special appropriation from the State Legislature to enable complete enforcement of this law.

HOLLISTER TUNGER, Jr.

Crime and Punishment

Albany, Jan. 16 (Special).—Senator Julius S. Berg, Bronx Democrat, told The Freeman something of his views on how prisons should be conducted, following his sudden burst of oratory on this subject at Tuesday's session when he was the only member to vote against the Buckley anti-crime measures.

The Bronx member of the upper house, who has been a legislator since 1923, serving eight of these years in the Assembly, reiterated his objections of Tuesday on the luxury afforded prisoners in the state institutions and declared with emphasis that the whole present prison program was out of order.

Pointing to what he holds as an outrageous condition, Mr. Berg charged that today prisoners of this state have more luxuries in the forms of organized sports, radios, motion pictures, and more privileges generally than the average working man can afford for himself and his family. He made a comparison of public schools and colleges with penal institutions and stated that they are about on a par with each other as far as recreation and privileges are concerned. Relating one instance that he knew first hand, to illustrate any lack of fear that prisoners have of going back to jail, Mr. Berg told of a purse-snatcher who deliberately grabbed a woman's handbag in broad daylight where a police officer was present and upon apprehension remarked, "Thanks for arresting me." The man was on parole, having served seven of his 10 year term.

Senator Berg advocates two systems of prisons. The first would be an institution for correction, with no bars to give a shadow of prison life. Here, at the state's expense, "billions if necessary," according to Mr. Berg, first offenders and younger violators would be trained to equip themselves for society, learn a trade, and then when the officials deemed them ready they would be permitted to go into society.

His other type of prison is what he terms "a real prison." He would make these institutions so severe that any one once within their walls would dread to entertain any thought of ever returning. Diets of bread and water would be all right with Mr. Berg, and hardships that they had brought on themselves would be deserving.

At present, this legislator observes, prisoners may be sent money by outside associates and may purchase their own food, foregoing the necessity of eating prison diets. He declares that he has seen bundles of favored edibles brought into prisons, including turkeys, imported jams, jellies, and other items.

Mr. Berg admits that under the present order of prison conduct it would be impossible to make many changes because prisoners are not classified. In describing the inmates he asserted that signers of bad checks are placed next to safe-crackers and murderers next to pickpockets so that to avert bedlam, jail-breaks and other disorders it is necessary in some way to maintain a high morale which undoubtedly comes from the recreational activities.

"I will give it serious study," he mused. Senator Joseph Clark Baldwin, only Republican senator from New York city, offered the suggestion to Mr. Berg that he sponsor legislation to pare the executive budget, now before both houses, from allowances for the luxuries that he has been denouncing. The Bronx member intimated that he would consider this suggestion but felt that unless there was a radical change in prison generally it would be useless to attempt just cutting off the one thing that upheld the prisoners' morale.

Legion Meeting in New Paltz Friday

Friday night, January 17, will be a big night in American Legion circles in Ulster county when the veterans and members of the Auxiliary journey to New Paltz to attend a dinner and meeting at which time State Commander Edward D. Schelberling of Albany will be the guest of honor. This will be the annual visit of the state commander of the Department of New York and no doubt a large audience will be present to hear his address at a meeting to be held following the dinner. The dinner will be held at 7:30 and members of Kingston Post who desire to attend can make reservations by calling the Memorial building. Veterans of the local post who would like to attend either the dinner or meeting and have no means of transportation will be accommodated if they will notify Les Barth at the building this evening.

Sullivan-Schaeffer Post of New Paltz will act as hosts and the meeting will be held in their post rooms. The Auxiliary will unite with the Post in order to hear the state commander's address.

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Post which is scheduled for the third Friday of the month has been postponed until Friday evening, January 24, in order that those who would like to do so may attend the dinner and meeting in New Paltz.

Forgive us . . . this charming young lady didn't mean to frighten you. But we printed her picture so BIG that you thought your eyes were fooling you.

THIS is just our way of saying BIGNESS—of telling you that some things are just too big to miss!

It's our way of telling you about the big Sales now being held in Kingston's stores. It's our way of illustrating the big values you'll find there. It's our way of pointing out the big savings you'll make if you yield to your better judgment, and go a-shopping now . . . and the big mistake you'll make if you don't.

It's our way of calling to your attention the undeniable fact that the biggest market-place for these great big values is the Daily Freeman. And that wise buyers add comfort and convenience to economy by shopping before they buy—in the Daily Freeman's big, meaty advertising pages.

And it's just our little way of pointing out another important fact: That your smile will be as big as the smile on the lady in this picture as you count the time, trouble and money saved—every day and all the year—when you read the ads regularly.

In the Hudson Valley Bowling League last week the Middletown State Hospital team took two out of three from Liberty and went into first place, the Sullivan county boys being second, one game behind.

No League records were threatened the past week, but Tom McDermott, Walden veteran, went to the top of the individual scorers, with an average of 196 for 35 games. He leads C. Rhodes and Leeson by one point, with Garbarino and B. Hunter a close third, tied at 194.

NYE WINS WAR PROBE AWARD

It was announced at Chicago that Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, has been chosen to receive the Cardinal Newman award for exposing "the hidden factors which make for war." Southern Ulster Women's Meeting

Highland, Jan. 16—Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. A. Lorin LeFevre, who was attending Founder's Day at Queens Women's Club, Mrs. James Callahan, vice president, presided at the meeting of the Women's Club of Southern Ulster Tuesday evening at the parish house of Ascension Church, West Park. There were several recommendations made by the executive meeting of the Friday previous, one of which was that the date of the meeting be changed to the last Tuesday of the month. The club received the resignation of Miss Rose Patti as secretary and accepted it with regret. There were invitations to attend the luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin in New York on February 4, which is president's day, and which Mrs. LeFevre and Miss Hilda Osberg plan to attend, also to the breakfast on January 25 at the Hotel Stuyvesant in Kingston when Miss Lena Maddison Phillips, a lawyer from New York, is to be the speaker. The state president, Mrs. Almon Smith, is to be present.

The Rev. Arthur McKey Ackerson, rector of Ascension Church, then told of the activities of the church of the Incarnation in New York among the children of the East Side. He said that parish had been established some 75 years ago at 28th street and Madison avenue. That it had a Sunday School of between 500 and 700 children, and maintained between 41 and 45 clubs within the church, besides the baby clinics and the serving a nutritional lunch for five cents to the children. The church activities lie between 23rd and 42nd streets, running from south to north and from Lexington avenue to the East river. The great summer feature of the church is the summer camp on a lake at Ivoryton, Conn. From this point Mr. Ackerson showed pictures of the children leaving the parish house in busses and then the playgrounds for from 120 to 130 girls in July and boys in August, whose daily lives are supervised, from constructive games to just play. The ages include 8 to 16 years, and there are 20 different nationalities represented with Greek and Armenians predominating. The cost is from $30 to $40 a month to maintain each individual, but the results cannot be estimated in dollars.

There is also on the same grounds the Bethlehem home where mothers and babies from one to six years can have a health-building vacation. This playground is enclosed so that the little children are free to roam about. There are 48 accommodations at one time.

Mr. Ackerson closed the reels of pictures with one of the last Flower show held last autumn at Ascension Church. There were those of Mrs. Alton B. Parker, the chairman, Mrs. James Roosevelt as she cut the ribbons opening the display of flowers, the different booths and those in charge, the supper groups, and the flowers with their exhibitors. Those present enjoyed the showing of pictures depicting refreshments of salad, wafers, and coffee were served by Mrs. Ella Burchill and Mrs. Gay Bradt. The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. Imbrie Richards and it is hoped to have Mrs. Eugene Releya of New Paltz present. Mrs. Releya has recently been appointed county chairman for the State Federation.

Among those present were: The

POLITICS at Random

WITH so many first-magnitude political bombs bursting in the air, major public attention has been diverted from the more laborious and perhaps more important spade-and-bayonet work down in the trenches.

It remains true in politics, as in war, that while spectacular aerial demonstrations may contribute to victory, it is the infantry which must be relied upon to take and hold ground, and the infantry of politics is going into action.

Back in the home precincts, up through the county and state organizations, the skirmish lines are forming and are trying to advance. The national managers and those who aspire to be national managers are poring over maps and large-scale plans of operation.

Not much news about the inner working of political parties ever reaches the public, yet these operations are vital. It is tedious, sustained, detailed organization effort which delivers the voters at the polls, and it is votes which win elections.

Democrats Have Edge

At this stage, the Democrats unquestionably have the edge so far as organization alone is concerned.

They start with a hold-over national set up which won a sweeping victory four years ago. They are in office, and have the patronage which is so powerful an influence in political organization. They know, or at least think they know, who their candidates will be.

However important they may be otherwise, the defections from Mr. Roosevelt have not cut appreciably into the official party inner circles. The national committee is dominated completely by Roosevelt men.

One other circumstance seems worthy of notice. Conciliation of the large city Democratic machines, which were suspected of lukewarmness four years ago, has been a prime objective of Chairman Farley. No one seems to doubt that he has made much progress.

An evidence appeared during the recent meeting of the national committee when Frank Hague, who controls the party in New Jersey, offered the resolution warmly commending the Roosevelt administration. Four years ago, Hague was Al Smith's floor manager at the Chicago convention, and he openly declared candidate Roosevelt never could win the election and must not be nominated.

The always unpredictable Tammany may be an exception, but by and large Farley seems to have done his organizing pretty thoroughly.

C. O. P. Has Ample Fund

THE Republican picture is much more confused, thus far, but certain evidences of strength are apparent.

By SYRON PRICE
(Chairman of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

It is clear that, up to the convention at least, the work of organization will be in the hands of old party wheel-horses, whose experience and political sagacity is discounted by no one.

Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman for New York, is far more active than outward appearances indicate in seeking to reform the ranks which were so badly broken in 1932. He is a veteran of veterans, and will bear watching in any man's campaign.

Another old-timer whose advice is valued highly around headquarters is Ralph Williams of Oregon, vice-chairman of the national committee. There has been some infiltration of new blood, but in the main the burden of the job rests on the older shoulders.

Chairman Fletcher, while not greatly experienced in politics, has taken his responsibilities very seriously. His unadvised missionary work, directed toward a united front whoever is the candidate, has reached into every part of the country.

Most notable of all, however, is the prospect that the Republicans will have an ample campaign fund, than which there is no more potent factor in effective political organization.

Viewing the battle line from either side, it appears Mr. Farley was right when he predicted that the hand-to-hand fighting would be terrific, and without quarter.

VAN KLEECK'S GARAGE

In 1621—

This picture shows how the Jamestown Colonists exchanged tobacco for brides. They paid "120 pounds of the best leaf" for transportation of each future wife who came to the New World from England.

In 1936—

And here is a picture of the modern auction warehouse of today where the same type of leaf tobacco is sold on the open market to the highest bidder.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette—and there never will be
... and that is the kind we buy for Chesterfield Cigarettes.

In the tobacco buying season Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. buyers will be found at 75 markets where the Bright type of tobacco is sold, and 46 markets where Burley and other types of tobacco are sold.

All these tobacco men are trained in the tobacco business, and are schooled in the Liggett & Myers tradition that only mild, ripe tobacco is good enough for Chesterfield Cigarettes.
